from a photo i took of the dawning of a golden day which a friend suggested i use as for the cover this book is composed of articles resulting from my further investigations and contemplations into the nature of reality the thrust of the book is that beneath the surface appearance of thoughts including all mental activity and sensations there is a deeper level of being which is the perceiver of these the former are a flow of fleeting objects whereas the latter which is the awareness of these is a constant conscious subjective presence this is the only constant that has been with you since you were born and that which has witnessed your entire life so this is what you actually are rather than the ever changing body mind in which these thoughts and sensations have occurred this book has two aims the first as a stand alone guide to and practices for awakening once this has taken place then anxiety and unnecessary mental suffering disappear for these are caused by misidentifying oneself as a separate object in a world of separate objects this causes us to see each other and the world through a murky filter of self interest self concern self promotion etc on awakening one discovers that there truly is no separate self and so this filter is removed allowing us to see the world as it is with no self concern for the future or past the second aim is to provide the reader with information on my spiritual journey this will show the influences that have moulded my understanding so that the reader can understand the basis of my pointers to awakening which constitute my books on the subject one other thing that makes this book unique is that it is the first that contains all of the various practices that i have developed and used over the last eighteen years the main aim of this book is to act as a stand alone guide to awakening which is synonymous with enlightenment when maintained the title comes from an internet discussion about enlightenment and my own conviction that it is available to all who truly want it and are prepared to investigate with an open mind this book is composed of articles resulting from my further investigations and contemplations into the nature of reality the thrust of the book is that beneath the surface appearance of thoughts including all mental activity and sensations there is a deeper level of being which is the perceiver of these the former are a flow of fleeting objects whereas the latter which is the awareness of these is a constant conscious subjective presence this is the only constant that has been with you since you were born and that which has witnessed your entire life so this is what you actually are rather than the ever changing body mind in which these thoughts and sensations have occurred
